As an addition to the industrial equipments of the State we notice with satisfaction the organization of the Winnsboro Granite Company with a capital of $60,000. The original owners were Colonel Rion, Colonel A. C. Haskell and Major Tom W. Woodward. The present company, reinforced by Charleston men, have purchased from the present owners, have organized, and will go vigorously to work. As this Winnboro granite is of fine quality, and the company have both money and enterprise we see no reason why it shall not turn supper was given at the parsonage of out a paying business-especially since the quarries are said to be wellnigh inexhaustible. For some time past Major Woodward, the most active owner of the Winnsboro Granite Quarries, has been negotiating with Charleston capitalists for a sale of an interest in the quarries. He has succeeded, and on Saturday last a meeting of the members of the new company was held for the purpose of electing officers, and for the transaction of other business relative to the development of their quarries. Heretofore, for the want of available capital, the work has not been done on a large scale, although more orders nouncement to-day of their clothing were received than could be filled. DEATH Is Something None of Think of, Yet we know not when disease and its ravages will attack us. We neglect the small things in life to grasp larger ones. We neglect our health, which is the most important factor to our comfort and happiness, and when it is gone what pi asure is left us? We feel badly, languid sleepy, but say its all right. "I will feel better in the morning." Morning comes, but the germs of disease have been planted; they readily take root and grow in the broken down constitution. In place of feeling better we feel more depressed and more badly than we did the previous day. Pro-crastination is the thief of time; it is also the thief of health, for by procrastination we allow our systems to become thoroughly poisoned with disease, and once thoroughly charged with malaria or the germs of fever it is no casy job to rid ourselves of them. It is an established fact and beyond dispute though that if we keep he liver healthy and in good order it is tmpossible for disease to take hold on our

Noble of soul, and high of aim, Thou warden of the people's weal, We greet thee with the cannon's roar, With roll of drum and bugle-peal, And thousand voices heavenward soar To join the glad acclaim.

But deeper, pledged in heart and hand, Oh, healer of intestine strife! Glows the true patriot's grateful love, To him who saved the nation's life. And for the eagle gave the dove As emblem of the land.

RIDGEWAY NOTES.

The festival given by the ladies of the Baptist church here on Thursday evening was a brilliant success, both socially and financially. One of the many pleasing incidents of the occasion was the voting of a cake to the most popular young lady. Great interest was taken in this by everybody, and the excitement was almost equal to a political contest. Miss Delphine Desportes took the cake, and was therefore the belle of the evening.

The treasurer was here on Tuesday, and judging from the unusually large crowd here on that day it is thought Office.-We cannot afford to use he made fine collections. Evidently names, but the following we give to there was considerable money around, our readers just as it happened. A for the merchants were almost as busy

It rained quite as much here lately as elsewhere, but notwithstanding the water and mud business kept booming. Cotton continues to come, and everybody is paying up in full with something left. In the amount of goods sold and produce bought, there are few, if any, towns in the State of the same size that can equal Ridgeway. The business men all regard the inter-"Mister, how is it you have never est of the town as their individual called on me for my subscription? We respect THE NEWS AND HER-We respect the NEWS and organs, the fact that at all of the great ALD's opinion on the subject of State organs, the fact that at all of the great world's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, Sovereignty, etc., as advanced in connexion with the imprisonment of the Virginia officials, but notwithstanding the highest honors. Illustrated catalogues its able reasoning we are obliged to differ. The war did not decide that there was no such thing as State Sovcreignty, but simply that the Union was indestructible, leaving everything else in statu quo. The status of the States is that they are in all respects. Sovereign, save that they have entered into a compact from which they connot withdraw. But aside from all this it does not appear upon what pretext a Federal Judge could presume to interfere in the domestic affairs of a State. The Common Law of England is no part of the law of the United States in its aggregate capacity, and all the powers of a Federal Judge is defined by Statute made in pursuance of the Constitution. If it is held that the Virginia law impaired the obligation of contracts and thereby give the Federal Courts jurisdiction the answer is that a State cannot be sued even on a contract, and therefore a law which impaired the obliga tion of a State contract couldn't prejudice anybody's rights. The only redress for the bondholders is through the Legislature, for be it said to the shame of this country that there is no tribunal here which exercises the functions of the ordinary Court of Chancery, and the only redress against a State is through the Legislature.
